4. Rules of Golf

The use of a self-standing putter for alignment help is now not allowed, although it can still be used for play.

Provided a self-standing putter conforms to the Equipment Rules, it may be used to make a stroke. However, the player (or their caddie) is not allowed to set such a putter down to get help in any way that would breach Rule 10.2b.

For example, the player must not set the putter down in a standing position right behind or right next to the spot where the ball lies on the putting green to show the line of play or to help the player in taking their stance for the stroke in breach of Rule 10.2b(3).
