CLUB NEWS / KLUB NUUS

IN MEMORIAM

GOETZ WANGE & WOLFGANG BUEHLER

Lori & Wolfgang Buehler

It is with great sadness that Gansbaai Golf Club has to announce that one of our oldest friends, Wolfgang Buehler, has passed on.

Wolfgang Buehler and his wife Lori became firm friends of this club and members during the many years they were here on golfing holidays, and became members of our "Club Family". They spent many hours on the course and in the club. Wolfgang also introduced Goetz Wange to Gansbaai Golf Club, and together they spent two weeks annually just playing golf and enjoying interaction with the members. Our most sincere sympathies are extended to Lori and family, and also to Goetz who lost his golf partner of many years.

Wolfgang Buehler was from Im Cächenbush 20, 53340 Meckenheim, Germany.

ALLERLEI / THIS AND THAT FAUNA & FLAURA

ONKRUID

Ons wil graag hê dat ons gholfbaan mooi groen moet wees maar hierdie tipe groen is baie ongewens. Daar is gelukkig spelers wat met elke gholfdag onkruid uittrek al langs hul roete. Hier hou Sextus een van die tamaai spesies onkruid vas. Dit sal gewelding baie help as meer hande hierby betrokke kan raak, dit help om 'n gholf karretjie te ry om hierdie onkruid by die klubhuis te kry.

Dit is weer broeityd vir die mooi kiewiet op ons gholfbaan. Hierdie een is tussen die blommetjies afgeneem naby die 9de bof. Wees versigtig vir hul nessies op die skoonveld, hul behoort jou te waarsku indien jy te naby kom met hul brawe skynaanvalle en geskree.

It is hatching time for the crowned plover on our golf course. This one was snapped amongst flowers close to the 9th tee. Be careful as their nests are on the fairway. They should warn you if you come too close with their brave mock attacks and high pitched screeching.

ALLERLEI / THIS AND THAT

FAUNA & FLAURA

The Satyrium carneum also known as the 'rooikoppie or rooi trewwa' in Afrikaans is in full bloom on the golf course. It is a ground orchid with thick fleshy green leaves of which the lower part is pressed into the ground. The flowers are normally pink but could also be white. Although it is unscented, it is visited by the sunbird. It appears between the Cape Peninsula and Stilbaai in dune bush vegetation, in fynbos on coastal hills in alkaline habitat. It is restricted to the coastal belt between sea level and 300m and is threatened by urbanisation, alien plants and agriculture.

THE ANGULATE TORTOISE NEST—This nest with one egg of the angulate tortoise was discovered by Bev Swart on the verge of a fairway. The nest where the tortoise laid her egg is about 8cm deep. The egg was safely restored to the nest. Golfers should please refrain from driving in the semi-rough areas where nests are hidden. These tortoises are now in their breeding season. Once it has rained the female will start searching for a suitable nest. "After egg laying, the female fills the nest with soil which is smoothed down under her shell. Incubation could take anything from 90 to 200 days. One of the many enemies of these tortoises are humans, who destroy their natural habitat by building or agricultural practises. In South Africa the tortoise is classified as protected species by Nature Conservation as described in Ordinance No 19 of 1974. It may not be possessed, collected, transported or exported without special permission in the form of a permit from the relevant conservation authorities".
